

FORTHEWIN

Reporter doused with beer in Bayern celebration

Adi Joseph, USA TODAY Sports 4:59 p.m. ET May 20, 2017

Bayern Munich dominate Germany's Bundesliga like LeBron James dominates the NBA's Eastern Conference. Well, almost.

Bayern clinched its fifth consecutive Bundesliga title Saturday and celebrated the way they always do - pouring beer over everything like they've never won anything before. In this case, that included one unlucky TV reporter: Britta Hofmann of Sky Sports.

Guenther Schiffmann/AFP/Getty Images

That's Bayern star Arjen Robben pouring beer on Hofmann, as she interviews retiring legend Philipp Lahm. It'd be nice if Hofmann were simply allowed to do her job without being covered in beer, but she was a good sport about it on Twitter.

britta hofmann
@britta_hofmann Follow

@philippplahm hat mir kurz vorher immerhin noch "viel Glück" gewünscht 😊 twitter.com/fcbayern/statu...

7:16 PM - 20 May 2017

👍 1 ❤️ 7

That roughly translates to "Philipp Lahm had nevertheless wished me good luck shortly before."

Robben got what was coming to him, too, via teammate Thiago.

SUITSUPPLY

GET THE PERFECT FIT AT SUITSUPPLY

DISCOVER

MOST POPULAR

- Pro golfer's kid adorably fails on putting green
- Candace Parker finally got her WNBA title ring
- T.J. Ford graduates, Rick Barnes gets emotional
- 3 reasons Regan Smith is a good NASCAR sub
- KAT, Draymond, players react to All-NBA teams
- Why NASCAR drivers love the All-NBA teams